HUNTING & FISHING REPORT

ANARESERVOIR: hatchery rainbow trout

Ana Reservoir remains ice-free during the winter because of springs producing constant 60°F water. Trout and hybrids remain active during the winter months. The water level is currently 13 feet below full pool and is expected to remain so until spring. Anglers should be prepared for dirt/mud conditions during this time. Fish can be caught using bait, lures, and flies from shore or boats.

ANA RIVER: hatchery rainbow trout

Ana Reservoir remains ice-free during the winter because of springs producing constant 60°F water. Trout and hybrids remain active during the winter months. Rainbow trout are active throughout the year in the river and anglers have been catching fish with bait, flies or lures

DUNCAN RESERVOIR: rainbow trout

Recent sampling captured trout from 8 to 15-inches; however, most trout were 12 to 13-inches. Water temperatures range from 30s to low 40s.

Ice conditions are unknown at Duncan Reservoir. Anglers wishing to ice fish can access the reservoir by snow mobile. Anglers should use caution during first-ice conditions including: using the "buddy system," wearing a PDF in case of thin ice, carrying a throw-rope, and using a heavy metal staff to check for thin-ice. Vexilar's Ice Fishing Today website has a quick 2-minute video describing how to be safe during early ice.

THOMPSON RESERVOIR: rainbow trout, largemouth bass Access to the reservoir may be blocked by snow. Anglers wishing to ice fish can access the reservoir by snow mobile. Anglers should use caution during first-ice conditions including: using the "buddy system," wearing a PDF in case of thin ice, carrying a throw-rope, and using a heavy metal staff to check for thin-ice. Vexilar's Ice Fishing Today website has a quick 2-minute video describing how to be safe during early ice.

This reservoir is a secret many anglers overlook. The reservoir is capable of producing trout over 20-inches and is within 1.25 hour drive from Bend. Anglers should consider fishing this reservoir before ice forms and targeting large fish looking to put on weight for winter. Anglers are reporting low water and limited ability to launch boats from either boat ramp. The Silver Lake Ranger District will have the most current information regarding boat ramps and can be contacted at 541-576-2107. Water temperatures are cooling and should be optimal for trout fishing.

LAKE COUNTY

Within the county Waterfowl season have different closure dates. Duck season closes on 19 January and Goose season closes on 26 January. Cold temperature during the latter part of December has caused ice to form on most of the major water bodies in the district. Almost all of the migratory waterfowl have moved south.

Cougar hunting is open. Populations are healthy due to good habitat and prey base. If hunters can find a fresh cougar kill, calling within a ½ mile of that kill can be very effective.

Coyote numbers appear to be increasing throughout the county. Pups have dispersed. Prey distress sounds will be effective for the rest of the year.

Upland Bird - Forest grouse season closes on 31 December. California Quail and Chukar seasons run through the end of January. The California Quail hatch was good but the birds are most common on private land and hunters must get permission. Hunters are finding very few Chukar throughout the county.

SUMMER LAKE WILDLIFE AREA

This section was updated on December 23, 2013

Parking permits are now required on all vehicles. Hunters get the permit free with the purchase of their annual hunting license.

Hunting success was fair during the past week. As weather conditions moderated considerably along with somewhat heavy hunting pressure, success declined dramatically by the end of the weekend.

Weather conditions moderated early in the week with the exception of Friday when it was somewhat harsh and cold. By the weekend, weather conditions moderated dramatically.

Daytime high temperatures were in the 40's with the exception of Friday (high of 29) and by the weekend were in the mid to high 50's. Skies were generally clear and winds were light for most of the week. Frozen conditions persisted over nearly all the area, although thawing occurred and ducks were not as concentrated as they were during the previous week.

Regional Specialty Winner

Local groomer Desi Lamberts shihtzu puppy ch. Bling it on! "Madison" won best opposite sex to the number one in the nation. The regional shihtzu specialty was held the first week of December in Ridgefield Wa. Madison was the youngest champion competing at 11 months of age. With only showing 4 times since gaining her championship she is nearly a grand champion. Accomplishing all this has earned her a two year invitation to the Eukanuba dog shows. Also earning her titles from the bred by exhibitor classes make it very rewarding. 2014 could be a very fun show year for Madison! We will keep you posted!

Children's Christmas Party

The CV Boosters held their annual Children's Christmas Party on Friday, December 13th. A total of 82 children from 0 – 12 years old attended the event. The children received a candy cane along with a chance to discuss their Christmas wishes with Santa. Some were to shy to talk to, or have their picture taken with Santa, while others had no problem with "putting in their order".

They were also given a present and a stocking filled with fruit, nuts & goodies. Everyone enjoyed a good time with cookies, punch and conversation.

We would like to thank all the individuals & businesses that made donations (and cookies) to make this party a success!

Parents' Corner: Making Healthy Resolutions

The New Year is a time to clean the slate and make a resolution or two. Maintaining strong connections with your children is one of the best ways parents can nurture their healthy development, while reducing their risk of getting involved in harmful behavior like experimenting with alcohol or other drugs.

These resolutions can help strengthen your connection with your child and help them make good decisions:

1. Resolve to have regular talks with your child about alcohol and drugs. Learn the latest about substance abuse, its danger to kids, and share these facts with your kids. Be clear about your disapproval of alcohol and drug use, and be specific about the consequences of their actions. Also, listen supportively to your child's questions and concerns, without judgment; model respectful behavior, and they will be respectful to you.
2. Plan fun events with your child; do an art project, play a board game, or build a snowman together. Taking time out together on a regular basis, without distractions, creates opportunities to stay better connected with your child.
3. Schedule weekly homework meetings; together, go through your child's notebooks. You will gain a better sense of how they are handling school and their peers; your student will be better organized, and feel more confident. Show your commitment to your child's education and future success.
4. Encourage your child to set and reach a short-term goal or two. It can boost their self-confidence and give them something greater to focus on beyond the daily challenges they face.
5. Take a look at what message you are sending with your own alcohol or substance use. If you do not drink, explain why. If you do, talk to your child about why the legal drinking age is 21, and about the importance of drinking in moderation, if they choose to, after age 21.

COMMUNITY PROJECTS

For the July 4th events

The C.V./N.L. Tourist Guide is in the process of being created for 2014.

Community projects and input are needed to be included on events, theme, vendors and scheduling by the end of January to make the Feb. printing of the Tour Guide.

Looking for 1 volunteer from each organization to work together to get the events scheduled up. First meeting is set for January 9, 2014 at the Community Hall from 2-4 p.m.

Please contact
Debbie Morehouse if you are interested.

Library Corner

by A Non A Mouse

Well here it is, the beginning of a brand new year. I have just redecorated my mouse house and it looks ever so cozy. There is nothing like some new curtains and accent pillows to spruce things up. And now that the back room is all snug so am I.

I now have a little studio with a lot of natural light where I am working on my entry in the 2014, Third Annual Winter Doldrums Art Show. The date is coming up fast! February 22. Be sure to watch for the Bright Yellow Posters with all the information because everyone wants this to be the best show yet.

Story Time at the Library has been on hold because we don't have a story time reader. I miss the thunder of little feet and the laughter that comes with it. I hope that someone can find a little time once a week to come in and read to the preschoolers - they are just at the right age to develop a love of reading.

Here is a NEWS FLASH! A one of a kind, hand-crafted Native American wall hanging has been donated to the Library by Victor Gardner who is the son of Jeanie and Victor Gardner who have both passed on. The family are choosing items to donate to the community as a way to make a difference. The wall hanging will be raffled by the Library. Watch for a photo of it in the next Community Breeze. All the details will be included with the picture. I haven't seen it yet but I heard Librarian Julie say that it is really beautiful. The wall hanging was made by Jeanie

Sometimes we forget that our little library is part of a library district. But, being part of a big organization has been benefiting our Christmas Valley Branch. Librarian Julie says that the wonderful new copy machine is here because we are part of the district. The same is true for all the technology we have here for grownups and children to use. So much that is directed our way is kind of behind the scenes. Now with the new main branch up and almost running in Lakeview, more and more services will be heading our way.

FROM THE ARCHIVES OF 1963

The following is from the First Anniversary Edition of the Christmas Valley Gazette of January 1963.

"Property owner Jack L. Savage of San Jose, Calif., was so enraptured with his views of Christmas Valley he couldn't contain himself.

Jack had to sit right down and compose this poem, which he entitled, 'The Christmas Valley Land.'"

The Christmas Valley Land

by Jack L. Savage

There's a beautiful spot in Oregon,
A valley long and wide,
Which once was just a big, deep lake
That stopped the lava slide;
But now the silty, loamy soil
Calls out to every soul:
Come, settle here, and own your land,
It's here you'll find your goal

But where, you ask in anxious tones,
Can this great valley be?
It's off the Cascades to the East
And miles from off the sea;
It's Christmas Valley, don't you know?
The place where people go
To leave the freeways far behind
Where traffic crawls so slow.

In Christmas Valley you can see
The land God leveled out,
Where men came years ago to farm
With hearts and wives so stout;
Heart-back-breaking, tho' their task,
They stuck 'til it was done,
Built their homes in Christmas Valley,
Fought the cowmen with the gun.

But times are often known to change
And so it was out here;
World war came for men to fight
To hold those things so dear;
To cattle kings the time had come
To make the farmer go;
So out they shoved the farming man
By bribe and gun and blow.

This valley languished fifty years
While cattle roamed here bounds.
Most people gone, a memory now,
Few were the joyous sounds;
But in old nineteen sixty-two
The people came again,
The sounds of laughter now abound,
Cow-king has lost his reign..

Not all were beaten by the kings,
Some stayed and fought it out.
They kept their lands, and to this day
Their kids are still about;
These folks who made the Valley home
Are upright, strong and true,
They're folks who shun the city life,
Just like I, and you.

So Christmas Valley is the place
For those who live to love,
For those who love to live and breathe
And honor God above;
'Twas God who leveled out the dirt
And made it fit for man,
So come with me, we'll rush to be
In the Christmas Valley land.

Hunting & Fishing

(cont. from pg. 6)

Warmer temperatures reduced waterfowl's energetic demand for feeding during daylight hours and a shift to foraging to a night time pattern.

For the 11th week of the season, hunter participation (134 check-in) was up considerably (54%) from the same week of the season last year, and up twice of the previous week probably due to goose season reopening and moderation from the harsh weather conditions during the previous week. . Reported harvest (94.8% check-out) of 224 birds (175 ducks, 34 Canada geese, 13 Am. coots, 1 California quail and 1 ring-necked pheasant) was up 25.1% from the same week in 2012. This past weeks' harvest was also up 46.4% from last week when goose seasons were closed.

Duck hunters reported the harvest of 86 mallards, 37 bufflehead, 13 gadwall, 12 American wigeon, 11 N. pintail, 4 goldeneye, 3 ringneck duck , and 10 other ducks of 8 different species. The duck per hunter average of 1.47 was down -40.3% from last week, and down -32% from the same week of the season last year.

Hunters reported taking 34 Canada geese. This harvest was over 3 time that of the same week of the season in 2012. Goose hunting season was closed last week.

One ring-necked pheasant and one California quail were, compared to 1 pheasant and 12 taken last week. No pheasants were reported taken during this week last year and California quail harvest was 5.

The prospect for the upcoming week is fair for waterfowl hunting. Frozen over conditions remain on over 90 of the wildlife area. Low numbers of waterfowl and somewhat mild weather conditions will result in difficult hunting conditions.

Weather conditions for the upcoming week are forecasted to remain mild for the entire week. High temperatures are forecasted to be in the mid-40's and nighttime lows will be in the mid to high 20's. Under these conditions, a majority of the wildlife area's wetlands should remain frozen over due to the very thick ice conditions at present, but will become unstable making access difficult.

Pass shooting from dikes will continue to be very poor. Hunters utilizing decoys and willing to spend most of the day in the marsh should have fair success. Those hunting interior areas around open pockets of water, away from dikes last week reported doing well, while dike shooters saw very poor success. Jump shooting along Ana River was reported to be fair, but constant pressure has moved birds away from most sections of the river.

The weekly waterfowl count conducted on Tuesday December 17th found about 7,100 ducks and 700 geese present. The next count is scheduled for December 24th and results will be posted on the department website and wildlife area's telephone answering machine the following day.

Habitat conditions are now poor with all units being frozen over and covered with thick ice.

Wetlands across the area are around 90% frozen at present.

The Ana River remains open (about to the center of the Gold Dike Impoundment) as are a few small areas below water control structures where water is flowing.

Hunters need to remember all of Bullgate Refuge has been returned to refuge status where no hunting or entry is allowed (except to retrieve lawfully downed birds).

In addition, the entire Bullgate Refuge is dry in preparation for major wetland enhancement work. As a consequence, about 300-400 acres in the hunt area along Bullgate Dike in the southeast portion of Between The Dikes unit and the northeast corner of Summer Lake proper will be dry.

Summer Lake proper remains fairly low but is increasing in size slowly.

All hunters must have a free daily hunting permit in their possession and are required to check out at the end of the day. Self-serve permits are available in the Checking Station Lobby at Headquarters. Please read and follow instructions when obtaining permits.

Check-out boxes are found at each campground, Headquarters and major access areas.

Please check the 2013-2014 Oregon Game Bird Regulations for daily bag and possession limits.

Federally approved non-toxic shot is required for all game bird hunting.

Please contact Summer Lake Wildlife Area at (541) 943-3152 or email martin.j.stlouis@state.or.us for additional information.

Thank You to our Sponsors!

The Christmas Valley Boosters would like to thank all of the wonderful people that sponsored children for the Tree of Joy this year. In total, 133 children were signed up from 58 families. We found sponsors to shop for 78 children and the Boosters sponsored and shopped for the remaining 55 children. These children ended up receiving warm clothing including shoes, coats, gloves & hats as well as toys from our area Toys for Tots program.

Each family also received a ham to enjoy over the holidays.

None of this would have been possible without support from our community members by donating their time, purchasing snow cones at various events, shopping at our yard sales, buying our wreaths we make every year and cash donations. Thank you all!

OBITUARY NOTICE

Lorena Qualls, 90, passed away on December 17, 2013 at home in Prineville Oregon. She was born on July 25th, 1923 in Tularosa New Mexico to John H. and Eva Wood.

Lorena, grew up in the San Andreas Mountains in New Mexico, far from town. She lived a very rugged and hard life that she enjoyed very much. While she lived there she met Billy the Kid when she was 12 years old. She lived most of the rest of her life in central California, and moved to Oregon with some of her family about 6 years ago.

She was an artist, an avid gardener, homemaker and a great mother & grandmother.

Some of her other hobbies included a love for quilting, and canning. She loved the Lord with all her heart and soul and was a devout Christian. She lived her life for her Lord and Savior every day.

Lorena, "Granny", loved her family very much, and she had a quite large one in fact. She was proceeded in death by her parents John H. and Eva Wood, her three sisters

Dorothy Miller, Babe Venn, Bonnie Sloan, brother Howard Wood, first husband John D. Brooks, second husband C.J. Qualls, and daughter Joy Brooks.

Her survivors include three daughters, Liz Ewell of Christmas Valley, OR, Twilight Brooks of Prineville, OR, Diana Scherf of Mariposa, CA, and son, John Brooks of Hanford CA. She also leaves behind 15 grandchildren, 29 great grandchildren, 9 great-great grandchildren, and many, many friends.

Arrangements were made by Baird Funeral Home of La Pine, Oregon, and services were held on December 23, 2013 at the North Lake Christian Center in Christmas Valley, Oregon.

BACK IN THYME HERBALS

By Linda McCoslin

January's herb is a request from Lu, our editor, who would like to know about our many high desert plants that seem to inhabit our area quite abundantly. She chose Greasewood as her first curiosity. In my many books, I have only found two with any information on Greasewood. "Sagebrush Country" a Wild Flower Sanctuary, by Ronald J. Taylor explains the shrub as:

Greasewood (Sarcobatus Vermiculatus), A white-barked shrub that may grow to be several feet tall, and is distinguished from sagebrush and most steppe shrubs by its bright green, rather than grayish foliage. Its numerous small linear leaves that are succulent (in Greek Sarco means fleshy) and roundish to triangular in cross section. The many spiny branches earn it. (The Greek suffix batas, means bramble.) Greasewood grows in alkaline flats, can tolerate excessive soil salts, (readily detectable in the taste of the fleshy leaves). It often forms extensive populations in salt flats and is an excellent indicator of alkaline soils.

In the "Herbal Gallery of Medicine" it is called "Chaparral," latin name "Larrea Tridentata/divaricate, AKA Creosote Bush, Greasewood, Hediondilla. Of the Caltrop family-Zygophyllaceae. Generally acknowledged as the most adaptable plant in the desert regions in the United States, Chaparral, or Creosote Bush, as it is often called, endures long periods without rainfall. When the rain does come, the shrubs thick leaves become stick and emit a tarry or creosote-like smell. This aroma accounts for the Mexican name "Hediondilla," meaning "little stinker".

In the desert and semi-desert regions of the Southwestern United States, where the plant is indigenous, Chaparral is found in gardens of native plants or used to ornament the landscape. Near L.A., in the Johnson Valley, is an unusual specimen of the species called The King Clone – a 25 by 70 foot bush some 12,000 years old. It began as an elliptical plant, a single creosote bush after the last ice age and has grown outward over the centuries. Some Indians prepared a decoction (extract) from the leaves that they used to purge the body and to heal sores.

Extracts from this plant are, like creosote, used as a preservative for lumber. The leaves are used in herbal medicines. Chaparral has potent and long-lasting anti-inflammatory and analgesic effects in the treatment of arthritis. It also acts against the human immune-deficiency virus (HIV), entamoeba (an organism that can cause hepatitis) and other micro-organisms, and has some benefits as a supplement in a compound found in Chaparral, is a powerful anti-oxidant that helps to prevent the kind of cell damage that can lead to cancer. It also has an anti-tumor effect. It is used as a mouthwash to prevent cavities as well.

The major traditional use of chaparral in Mexican herbalism is as a bath or linament to relieve the inflammation and pain of arthritis. Chaparral is an ingredient in an herbal tea recommended today by some folk healers as an antitussive (relieves or prevents coughing), an anti-arthritic (eases symptoms of arthritis), and a cancer remedy.

Considerations for use: Chaparral should be used as a bath. In one seven year period, there were eighteen reports of toxic liver damage from the over use of the herb in the U.S. Mexican toxicological studies have found that internal use causes serious signs of toxicity and pathological changes, as marked reduction of growth, pronounced irritability and aggressiveness and a marked shrinkage of testicles. Chaparral contains compounds that can increase the risk of sunburn and cause skin irritation to parts not exposed to sun. When you use Chaparral, be sure to use sunscreen and avoid sun exposure where it is used on skin. Do not use Chaparral more than once in any thirty-day period. Do not use if you have kidney, lymph or liver problems.

What an interesting plant. I don't think I would be very quick to add it to my herbs, as I don't care for its cautions and it's not a very easy plant to harvest. It has nasty thorns.
